

VOGEL JEWELS VALUED AT $3,000 FOUND BY POLICE

Two Packages Located To-Day on Third Floor of Building Where He Was Slain.

CORONER HASTENS CASE

Finger Prints Believed to Be Strong Link in Testimony
Against Elevator Operator.

What Captain of Detectives Fay called the last link in the chain that will convict Joseph Roberts, the elevator operator, charged with the murder of Isaac R. Vogel, was found to-day when two packages containing $3,000 worth of gems stolen from the slain jeweler were found in a lavatory on the third floor of the building at No. 126 Canal street.

About $1,000 worth of the plunder was found Saturday in a vacant loft. The find to-day, according to the police, makes up the total of all the jewelry the elderly jeweler carried in the canvas belt about his waist when he was beaten to death with a hammer. One of the two packages contained the jewelry of Mrs. Vogel and her daughter, Mrs. Shapiro, which they had given to the jeweler to take care of on the day before he was slain. Capt. Fay found finger prints on the two packages and also a stained jumper that had been worn by the negro.

Satisfied that the police have fastened the crime upon Roberts, Coroner Feinberg cut short his preliminary inquiry to-day and arranged for a formal inquest on Wednesday.

The coroner considers the finger-print evidence the police obtained conclusive and expects that the case will be in the hands of the Grand Jury before the end of the week.

THINKS FINGER PRINT EVIDENCE IS STRONG.

Inspector Hughes believes his finger print evidence alone would be sufficient to convict the negro. He is confident that the trial to prove of unusual importance because of the novelty of the main evidence. There have been finger prints in a number of burglary convictions here, but never before in a murder case.

"We are now ready to place our case in the hands of the District Attorney, and I have every confidence in a quick indictment and a sure conviction whenever the case may be brought to trial," said Inspector Hughes.

The negro Roberts was arrested last April for looting the safe of his employer, Steinhardt & Co., jewelers at No. 88 Broadway. The robber had ripped the strong box from the safe and taken it down to the cellar and beaten it open with a sledge. On the side of this box we came upon the finger print—a right middle finger print, it was decided.

Capt. Faurot then took the finger prints of every employee in the Steinhardt employ—some two hundred. Roberts was the only one who hung back. Finally, however, he submitted to the test. But at this time finger print evidence before a jury was brand new, and as Roberts bore no other marks of identification, he was never tried and was discharged from custody.

Then Capt. Faurot nor myself has the high doubt that the finger print of the looted taken from the dead body of Isaac Vogel, is the finger print of Roberts.

Detective John M. Hayes, whose work on the Vogel murder won the commendation of Deputy Commissioner Dougherty, has been promoted by Commissioner Waid to be a detective of the first grade, which gives him an increase in salary from $1,400 a year to $1,550.

FRENCH LEADER'S SHOTS STIR ALSACE-LORRAINE.

Race War Threatened by the Killing of a German Soldier on Street in Metz.

METZ, Alsace-Lorraine, Dec. 11.—A German soldier named March was shot and killed to-day during a dispute on the street with a man named Alexandre Samaine, one of the leaders of the French party. Four friends of Samaine, together with himself and his brother, were arrested for complicity in the crime.

The incident has caused great excitement and the trial of the accused will have a momentous effect in fanning the hostile feelings of the two races, which are always so acute in Alsace-Lorraine. Alexandre Samaine holds a prominent position among the French party. He was the organizer of a big demonstration in Metz on Jan. 2 last, when troops had to be called out to disperse the crowds who paraded the streets singing the "Marseillaise" and cheering for the republic of France.

CHARITY-BEQUEST STANDS.

(Special to The Evening World.)

WHITE PLAINS, Dec. 11.—The will of Mary E. Robinson, an elderly magazine writer, who died at Mamaroneck about two years ago, leaving practically all her estate to charity, was upheld by a decision of the Court of Appeals filed here to-day reversing decisions of the Appellate Division and the Surrogate of Westchester County.

The will named Burton C. Meighan and Frank H. Upham trustees to administer the estate, amounting to upward of $25,000, "to provide shelter, necessities of life, education, general or specific, and such other financial aid as may seem to them fitting and proper to such persons as they may select as being in need of the same."

The trustees were represented by Meighan & Neerhaus, Arthur M. Johnson and Lewis E. Carr, the co-trustees by Edward R. Othman of New York.

ROOSEVELT IN 1912 NOW OPEN FIGHT OF COLONEL'S FRIENDS

Republican National Committeemen Stormed With Talk of 'Forcing' Him to Accept.

CAN'T REFUSE, THEY SAY

Has Only Said He Is Not a Candidate—Has Not Said He Would Refuse to Run.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 11.—All attempts to disguise the fact that a concerted movement is on foot looking to the nomination of Col. Theodore Roosevelt as the Republican candidate for President in 1912 were apparently dropped to-day when it became known that members of the National Committee were being sounded as to their views on the feasibility of "forcing" the nomination on the former President.

On the eve of the assembling of the Republican National Committee in quadrennial session here little was talked of to-day but the prospective attitude of Col. Roosevelt. It became known that several prominent Republicans, on their way to Washington to attend the conference this week, had stopped over in New York and had long talks with Col. Roosevelt, and while there had made arrangements to see him either at New York or Oyster Bay following the meeting of the National Committee.

On the eve of the assembling of the Republican National Committee in quadrennial session here to-morrow, little was talked of to-day but the prospective attitude of Col. Roosevelt. It became known that several prominent Republicans, on their way to Washington to attend the conference here this week, had stopped over in New York and had long talks with Col. Roosevelt, and while there had made arrangements to see him either at New York or Oyster Bay following the meeting of the National Committee.

The supporters of Mr. Roosevelt now have a feeling of all of their arguments in his behalf on the claim that while the former President has announced that he is not a candidate he has not stated that he would not accept the nomination if it were tendered to him. They claim that as a good American citizen Col. Roosevelt could not do otherwise than accept, once the convention had acted.

No attempt, it was said to-day, would be made to bring the Roosevelt sentiment to a focus at this time. The hope of his supporters is to achieve victory in the convention itself. For this reason they have practically dropped the fight to have the National Committee declare in favor of presidential primaries at this time, but they are pressing the argument that delegates should go to the convention uninstructed.

Friends of President Taft are meeting the Roosevelt sentiment everywhere and assert that the movement is a well directed one. They are urging President Taft's nomination on the ground that to refuse to instruct his administration would be to discredit the party. The programme of the National Committee was practically decided upon in full last night, and this gave the committee and other visitors a chance to talk politics to-day.

President Taft to-day told Representative Bartholdt and James E. Smith of St. Louis that the Administration would not throw its weight in behalf of any city that is trying to secure the National Convention. The President told Mr. Bartholdt that he had not done anything to influence the selection of a convention city and did not expect to do anything in the matter. Mr. Bartholdt said he left the White House convinced that he expected St. Louis to get the convention. Most of the committeemen are agreed, however, that the big meeting will be held in Chicago.

SHIP'S SURGEON IS CALLED INSANE; PUT UNDER GUARD.

Prins Willem Arrives With Dr.
Altenloh Confined to Cabin
by Force.

When the Royal Dutch Mail steamship Prins Willem arrived in New York last night, Capt. Ahrens notified the officers of the company that Dr. Charles Altenloh, the ship's surgeon, who had come aboard at Amsterdam, was confined to his cabin under guard.

According to the captain, the doctor developed a mild form of insanity as soon as the Prins Willem left port. He became so uncertain in his speech and actions, it was necessary for his own safety to place him under guard, night and day.

When the Prins Willem arrived at Hayti two physicians were summoned from the town and made an examination of the surgeon. According to Capt. Ahrens's statement to-day, Dr. Altenloh is a victim of the morphine habit.

The doctor is said to have a wife and three children in Chicago. As soon as the steamship company decides what to do with him his wife will be notified.

"TOMBS" IMPROVEMENTS NEEDED, SAYS SOLOMON.

Commissioner Recommends New Prison for Women, One for Boys and a Psychopathic Ward.

ALBANY, Dec. 11.—Various improvements to the New York City Prison of the so-called "Tombs" are recommended by Commissioner Solomon of the State Prison Commission, who says a new prison for women, a new prison for boys and a psychopathic ward are necessary.

"These three buildings," says the report, "should be built on adjoining property and connected by a bridge or tunnel. It is would allow the present Tombs to be used entirely for men, providing ample room for their proper separation and classification. As a temporary expedient, I would suggest that proper legal steps be taken by the Commissioner of Charities to have the Ludlow Street Jail turned over to his department."

BIG WALL STREET CROWD CHEERS GOV. EBERHARDT

Minnesota Executive Addresses
the Noonday Outdoors Religious Meeting.

Gov. Eberhardt of Minnesota addressed the noonday religious meeting in Wall street to-day. Several thousand persons, mainly young men employed in the banking and brokerage institutions of the financial district, heard his speech.

At the conclusion of the speech the crowd cheered the Governor. Not content with giving him a great ovation, about one-half of the crowd made a rush on the big touring car which brought the Governor to the district, and for fifteen minutes the Chief Executive of Minnesota was engaged in shaking hands with the young men.

Gov. Eberhardt was greatly pleased with the cordiality of the reception. The stories told by the Governor of his early struggles greatly interested the crowd, especially when he referred to the fact that it was not until he was about twenty years old that he was able to begin his education.

The Governor was escorted to Wall street by the Rev. Dr. Wilkins and President Olcott of the Albany Day Line. In introducing the Governor the "Bishop of Wall Street," who has known him for many years, paid his friend a flattering tribute.

HIS STUDIES CAUSE DEATH.

Boy Went to Bed With Book, Gas
Blew Out.

When William D. Law of No. 95 Avenue C, Bayonne, N. J., went to call his son, William S., early to-day he found the room full of gas and the boy dead in his bed. There was a book beside the body and an open gas jet. The boy, who was eighteen years old and had graduated from high school last year, was an earnest student and always went to bed with a book. He would lie reading far into the night.

It had been the father's custom to visit the son's room before retiring every night to make sure all was well. Last night he did not do this, having been out late to dinner. Returning he saw no light in the boy's room and thought him asleep.

Young Law had a bent for printing. In his father's garage in the rear of the house he had three presses with an electrical equipment.

You're Troubled With Constipation!

What you really need is not a mere purgative which will require increased doses and finally cease acting, but a well-seasoned medicine which, while it cleanses, also strengthens and purifies.

That old family laxative,

WALL STREET.

Higher conditions in London and a fair Monday morning buying demand resulted in standard securities moving uniform advances of about half a point at the outset of stock market trading to-day. Steel, Reading, Union Pacific and Copper all ruled firm during the first half hour, but eventually began to bend to professional realizing.

Decided improvement developed at midday that continued to closing time. In the best demonstration of strength witnessed in some time prices of all the leading issues advanced from 1 to 2 points above the initial range. Reading rose to 109 1/4, Union Pacific climbed to 113 3/4, Steel advanced to 41 and St. Paul mounted to 111 1/2. The improved tone was not confined entirely to the leaders, for many of the inactive shares have joined in the upward trend with good-sized gains.

The Closing Prices.

To-day's highest, lowest and last prices of stocks and of gold changes, as compared with yesterday's final figures, are as follows:

SHOES "PINCHED" HIM.

So Did Hustace's Wife, According to Her Plea for Divorce.

Supreme Court Justice Ford heard argument and reserved decision to-day on the application of Mrs. Corrine Prince Hustace to punish her husband, William A. Hustace, for contempt in failing to pay her alimony pending a suit she has begun for divorce.

Benjamin F. Spelman, counsel for Mrs. Hustace, told of a raid on a house in West Thirty-second street, where Mrs. Hustace, several friends and detectives, found Hustace with Mrs. Hustace, the co-respondent.

"Hustace," said the lawyer, "had his shoes off when the party broke in, and his excuse was that they pinched him."

WANT GAEKWAR OF BARODA NAMED IN DIVORCE SUIT.

London Court Asked That Indian
Prince Be Cited as Co-respondent in Secret Action.

LONDON, Dec. 11.—Application was made in court this afternoon for permission to cite the Gaekwar of Baroda, the most powerful of the Indian princes, as co-respondent in a divorce case. The names of the parties to the suit are being suppressed.

Attorneys for the Gaekwar refuse to accept service for him, declaring that the Prince was out of the jurisdiction of the courts. He is now attending the Durbar ceremonies at Delhi.

The Gaekwar is well known in London, having made many visits here. He has a son in school at Oxford and another one at Harvard. His wealth is fabulous and his liberality has astonished various countries he has visited.

The Prince was educated by English tutors and his special hobby is education. His title "Gaekwar" means "cow-keeper," a high honor since the cow is sacred to the Hindus.

ELEVATOR BOY STICKS TO POST AS FIRE RAGES.

Myer Glosser Keeps Car Running
Until Twenty-four Families Reach Street.

Myer Glosser, elevator boy of the seven-story double house at No. 50 Stuyvesant street, did more work between 7 o'clock and 7.30 a. m. to-day than any other man in New York, which accounts for the fact that there were no casualties at a fire which drove the twenty-four families who live in the house into the streets in panic.

Samuel Dworkin and his wife reside on the second floor. They are milliners, and in the kitchen they had a can of oil used to make old feathers with drooping dispositions sit up and take notice of the mutations of fashion. Mrs. Dworkin left breakfast on the kitchen stove while attending to other work. The breakfast took fire, and did the oil and then the house was in flames.

The fire was one of those rapid workers that put energy into a lazy sleeper. Mrs. Dworkin saw it and screamed. Dworkin was asleep, but he was aroused by his wife and went out of the window by the fire escape route in scanty enough attire to have danced next to a seven veil dancer.

His escape from injury was narrow. Myer Glosser, the elevator boy, did not permit the fire to frighten him from his post. He ran his elevator as rapidly as it could move and took all of the tenants to the street in safety. The fire didn't amount to much after the high pressure men got to it.
